

Forget the old saying "you can't judge a book by its cover." When it comes to job interviews, first impressions count. Putting forth a little extra effort may well result in a big pay-off!

This whole look says, "I don't want to be here." Not exactly the way to land a good job

Simple and neat is the way to go when it comes to your hair.

Okay, so the bare look made Britney Spears a teen queen, but don't count on it to help your job prospects.

Conservative colors and classic lines can take you anywhere.

These shoes are a flop when it comes to making a good impression.

A small matching bag like this is the perfect choice. Leave the backpack at home.

Hose are a must, whether flesh-toned or coordinated with your skirt or shoes.
