Take Control of Your Future

As a Kentucky high school student, you have reached an exciting point in your life when you are making important decisions that will determine how successful the next 70 to 80 years of your life can be. Seventy or 80 years? That's right! Medical studies confirm that the average young Kentuckian who is 16, 17 or 18 years old will likely live to be 90 to 95 years old!

While there are literally hundreds of decisions – little decisions – that you make every day, one of the biggest and most important decisions will be whether you continue your education beyond high school.

I hope you will do just that. Stay in school. As our world becomes more and more complex, increased knowledge and experience, through education, is the best way for you to be in command of your own destiny.

Your future is just that – yours. I encourage you to take advantage of our colleges and universities, as well as our regional community and technical college system. When you learn about their wide variety of programs, I think you will agree that continuing your education beyond high school is the right decision.

Best wishes,

Ernie Fletcher
Governor of Kentucky
